Only 500 bags of sugar was brought in on the steamer Nilhau, which arrived this morning from Kausi. She was to have loaded with 7000 bags, but the weather was too rough to admit of so much of a load. After leaving port, however, the weather was better, and for the cargo of the Texan, which is soon to arrive in port to take sugar to Atlantic coast ports. She will load enough sugar here to do for ballast, and will take the main cargo at Hilo. It is not believed there will be enough sugar on hand at the time she arrives to meet her demands, and she will probably be delayed a little time in this port. The steamer W. G. Hall will be in tomorrow with sugar from Kaual ports for the Texan, also.

James P. Howe, who for the past six onths has been a member of the Bulletin staff of writers, leaves for San Francisco today in the bark Kainiani. After remaining a few days in Sar Francisco he will go to Portland, when e has relatives, a brother being on th staff of the Oregonian. During his stay here Mr. Howe made many friends who hope the fascinations of Honolulu will someday can him back. He is a bright newspaperman and will shine wher ever fortune takes him.
